

Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program

Become a Friend! Help support your school!

Who:

The Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program (BTSALP) helps hundreds of thousands of elementary students receive the arts-enriched education they deserve.

What:

The program places art specialists in Utah elementary schools to work alongside classroom teachers to develop arts-based lesson plans in the core subjects of reading, math, science, and history.

Where:

Elementary schools across the state of Utah are experiencing the positive impact of the arts-integrated program.

When:

This innovative integrated teaching model has grown and evolved since its inception in 1995, and was adopted by the Utah Legislature in 2008.

Why:

By integrating arts into learning, schools with BTSALP have seen higher test scores and improved student understanding, retention, behavior, attendance, and self-esteem.

By filling out this form, we will be able to keep you up to date with what's happening in your school and community and we will let you know when you can show your support by writing your legislators.
